What does an Office Accounting Specialist do?

Office Accounting Specialists produce financial records for organizations. They use bookkeeping software, spreadsheets, and databases and enter financial transactions into the appropriate computer software. Office Accounting Specialists check for accuracy in figures, postings, and reports, and reconcile or note and report any differences they find in the records.

How will Asher College prepare me for this career?

Students will be prepared to:

- Create and edit professional-looking documents at a specialist level
- Process basic human resource duties, including recruitment, retention, orientation, safety, and more
- Plan meetings, events, and travel arrangements
- Build knowledge of the accounting cycle by analyzing transactions into debits and credits, recording transactions to the journal, posting to the general ledger, and preparing a worksheet including a trial balance and financial statements

What characteristics are important in this field?

- Computer skills: Bookkeeping, accounting, and auditing clerks need to be comfortable using computer spreadsheets and bookkeeping software.
- Detail oriented: Bookkeeping, accounting, and auditing clerks are responsible for producing accurate financial records. They must pay attention to detail in order to avoid making errors and recognize errors that others have made.
- Integrity: Bookkeeping, accounting, and auditing clerks have control of an organization's financial documentation, which they must use properly and keep confidential. It is vital that they keep records transparent and guard against misusing an organization's funds.
- Math skills: Bookkeeping, accounting, and auditing clerks deal with numbers daily and should be comfortable with basic arithmetic.

What are the job opportunities in this Career?
